WATER QUESTION UPPERMOST BECAUSE OF BREAK IN DAM

People Forced to Measures of Economy--Government Officials Here

RIVER DROPS TO 4 1-2 FEET

Believed That Water Will Not Go Much Lower. Tributaries Being Filled—Coal Men Manage to Get Little Coal Out in Small Flats.

While the serious situation existing as a result of the break in the dam at Lock No. 4 Wednesday morning has not been relieved, it has not grown much worse, and government men believe that with the water coming in from river tributaries no greater danger than the valley now faces will be experienced. The most noticeable effect to the people has been the curtailment of the water supply. Even Charleroi, Monessen and Donora, using service of the Tri Cities Water company, have been forced to adopt measures of economy in preventing waste. So low is the river that the Charleroi pump station is unable to pull the usual supply from the river. Most industrial plants by extending their lines far out into the river have managed to get a supply sufficient to enable them to continue operation. Coal mines with river barges have been forced to moor their barges in the middle of the river in deep water, and there is little movement of craft

This morning the reading on the upper sill at Lock No. 4 was 4 1-2 feet, this being the lowest stage in the recorded history of the fourth pool There was a fall of 7 inches during the night.

Realizing the seriousness of the situation high government officials in charge of the river hastened here from Pittsburg Wedensday in the patrol boat Kittanning. In the party were Lieut. Col. Edwin Jadwin of the Pittsburg district waterways, Lieut. Col. Beach of the Cincinnati district and W. H. Arras of the Allegheny district. W. D. Fairchilds, assistant to Lieut. Col. Jadwin, and the man generally in charge of the river work was on the job almost from time of the break directing the preliminaries in getting repairs started. The Pittsburg district officers have established headquarters on the steamer Swan and will remain until something definite is accomplished.

Under direction of Supt. George S. Nutt, two crews are at work night and day constructing four large wooden cribs to be put in above the break and filled with stone. Various measures were considered for stopping the flow of water, including that of sinking barges, but this was thought the most feasible. Some trouble is being experienced in securing sufficient labor for the hurried work.

There has been a general suspension of the coal trade. A few empties are being taken up stream. Empty barges draw little water and towboats can practically all skim along in four feet. The Vesta Coal company has adopted the plan of reloading their barges moored just below the Charleroi coal tipple into smaller barges and sending them through the lock. Once they are through they are safe, since the third pool of water has not been affected by the fourth pool break. Eight of the barges of the W. Harry Brown

Find Treasure In River Sand

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. Never in the history perhaps was the Monongahela river at a lower ebb than now in the fourth pool, due to the break in the dam at Lock No. 4, and never perhaps was there so much fear and trembling about what might happen if the river dropped even a tiny bit lower. But at the location of the Charleroi Bathing Beach, all is activity. The Bathing Beach association has taken advantage of the opportunity to clean out the bottom of the river from the debris of winter. Incidentally the association is uncovering treasure stores. Bracelets and other pieces of jewelry have been found on the river bottom that long since had been given up as lost. Even rugs were found. While the beach bottom is being cleared other improvements are also being made along the bank and new trees planted.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO RAISE FINANCES FOR LOCAL COMPANY

General Committee of Volunteer Regiment Takes up Business Details

At a meeting of the general committee in charge of the formation of a local company to be a part of the western Pennsylvania volunteer regiment, a financial committee was named Wednesday evening to consist of K. W. Daly, W. R. Gaut, J. D. Berryman, C. J. Mogan and R. H. Rush. Dr. G. H. Smith was named recruiting officer.

A report was received by the general committee that Donora would soon have a company formed to join the volunteer forces. Ten more have enlisted in the Charleroi company. Army work and pay was explained in a street address Wednesday evening by Corporal Holes and this stimulated interest in the local volunteer organization.

Notice to Water Consumers

On account of the dam at Lock No. 4 breaking it has lowered the river to such an extent as to almost prevent the operation of our pumps. However we are able to operate our pumps at present, but not to their fullest capacity. In order for us to insure the domestic consumers service it became necessary to shut off all industrial consumers. We respectfully urge upon all consumers to be as saving with water as possible until we are able to install special equipment to meet this unusual condition.

BUTCHERS ACCUSED OF SELLING MEAT OF DISEASED COW

Alleged to have sold meat from a cow that had a cancer, Mike Godwin and H. Green, butchers of Coal Center, were arrested Wednesday on information made by Dr. W. S. Gimpert of the State Sanitary Live Stock board. The arrests were made by Constable George S. Mosley, of Washington.

The information was made following investigation by Dr. Gimpert, Dr. T. Edward Munce and Dr. H. W. Turner, of the state veterinary department. The matter was called to the attention of the state by the council of Coal Center and the Board of Health, through Attorney J. Olan Yarnell. The cow, the investigation showed, had been bought of Henry Hannan for $5.

He did not sell the cow for butcher purposes. He sold only the hide, and the agreement was that the cow be killed and skinned at his place. It was learned that the two men, after killing and skinning the cow, cut it up, wrapped the quarters of meat in sacks and took it to Coal Center, where the greater portion of it was ground up into Hamburg steak and sold.

A number of persons were found who had bought the Hamburg steak and who had been unable to use the meat because it appeared tainted. The two men told conflicting stories when asked how they disposed of the cow. One said they had sold the meat to A. K. Shaffer, of Coal Center, for dog meat. This story was found to be incorrect. Another story was that they had burned the carcass. This story was also found to be false.

STARS AND STRIPES TO FLY OVER CHURCH

The First Methodist Episcopal church at California will fly the Stars and Stripes from a flag pole on the tower. The flag will be raised tonight at a celebration which will take on the nature almost of a community affair.

The suggestion came from the pastor, Rev. Richard M. Fowler, in a sermon on "Patriotic Citizenship", when he said he would like to see Old Glory flying from the top of the church. Accordingly a large flag 8 x12 feet was presented with all necessary equipment to the church by some of the patriotic members.

The California band, the Boy Scouts, veterans of the Civil and Spanish-American wars and other citizens will participate in the exercises. Talks will be made by Rev. Fowles and other ministers and leading citizens. Patriotic songs will be sung by the large male chorus choir of the church.

Special fitting of Gossard Corsets. Miss N. P. McNally will be at Berryman's Friday March 30th. Make appointments by phone. 241t1.

PUBLIC SAFETY WORK IN STATE ORGANIZED

The Pennsylvania Committee of Public Safety, composed of approximately 200 men called together by Gov. Brumbaugh from all parts of the commonwealth, was organized at the capitol Wednesday and immediately set to work to prepare the state for war. The committee includes heads of railroads, banks, public utilities, publishers, educators, lawyers, leaders in industry and politics.

Aside from the governor's address of welcome, in which he outlined the work of the committee, there were no patriotic speeches, the committeemen putting their patriotism into action rather than into words. Today Pennsylvania has a preparedness organization that is ready to take up every phase of activity to be met with in time of danger from without or within the state and ready to co-operate with the national government

Under the chairmanship of George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia the committee, of whom 148 were present, named a vice chairman, a treasurer and an executive committee of 12. The committee will ascertain the resources of the state in men and materials and organize local committees.

The work of the committee will be carried on by five divisions under which there will be 15 departments of activity.

Vesta No. 1 Steps In Line

A military company is being organized by the company employes of the Vesta No. 1 mine now being opened at Dunlevy and drilling is being started. One hour each morning and an hour in the afternoon is being spent. Men are being asked to wear small flags and a large flag has been placed at the plant. J. W. Downer is instrumental in the work or organization and Superintendent Richard Dunlap is offering his assistance. The company will shortly be properly equipped and made ready for any call.

FILMS TENDING TO RETARD RECRUITING WILL BE PROHIBITED

Decision Reached by Board of Censors in Pittsburg Case

The exhibition of any motion picture films or slides which tend to retard the work of United States recruiting officers will be prohibited under a ruling by the Pennsylvania Board of censors, according to Ellis P. Oberholtzer, secretary of the board, who was in Pittsburg Wednesday. The ruling was made following a complaint that the proprietor of a Fifth avenue theatre had been exhibiting slides depicting the horrors of war.

"Such exhibitions are retarding my efforts to enlist men for the United States Army," Col. T. S. Griffiths is quoted as have said to Miss Florence E. Wrenshall, inspector for the Board of Censors in Pittsburg. At a conference with Secretary Oberholtzer it was decided the board will co-operate in every way possible with military and naval authorities. All films containing scenes that might tend to discourage enlistment will be censored strictly, Mr. Oberholtzer said.

Special fitting of Gossard Corsets. Miss N. P. McNally will be at Berryman's Friday March 30th. Make appointments by phone. 241t1

Plans of Warner-Leonard Company Interrupted--- Will Open Small Tract

TO USE THE MAXWELL FIELD

Operations to be Started This Spring On Minor Scale Until Matters Holding Back Larger Development Are Adjusted

The Warner-Leonard Coal company will proceed this spring to the opening up of the small Maxwell tract of coal they own along the Bentleyville line, but when they will begin the development of a 300 acre tract adjoining depends upon what transpires within the next 30 days. This was the definite statement of W. H. Warner, the senior partner and head of the concern upon aivsit together with John Leonard, the junion partner, here Wednesday.

There have been numerous annoying delays, according to Mr. Warner, all of which have tended to hold them back in carrying out their plans for developing their Maple creek coal. There were matters of right-of-way, arrangements with Speers' borough for crossing rights, arrangements with the Pittsburg Railways company and state highway department and finally with the Public Service Commission. The Service Commission has handed down a decision by which the company is given means for transporting their coal to the railroad. Still there are matters requiring final adjustment, though of what nature [illegible] fit to state, that now is holding up operations.

CONSERVING RESOURCES

If war comes the American people will get some valuable lessons in economics and conservation that experts who have made a life study of them have been talking about for a long time. Preliminary preparations made by the government, in which careful not has been taken of every resource, as well as the experiences of the nations now engaged in war, indicate it.

One of the most important lessons we will learn is that of intense development of the land. With broad areas of agricultural land the people of the United States have never in earnest taken up with the theory of intensive development. Crowded countries have, as for instance Germany, which was best prepared when war broke out. The land can be made to give forth more, and if war comes we will find it out.

Agricultural colleges have been teaching intensive cultivation for years. They have been making a dent, but war is the medium that will bring us to a full realization of the vast wealth of the land.

In the last two years we have been learning. We not only have had to supply ourselves with food, but also those fighting peoples across the sea. It is said that all wars present some opportunities, no matter what their drawbacks. One of America's opportunities may be that of greater cultivation of tillable areas and conservation of natural resources.

A NEED.

The coroner's jury investigating the death of a boy at Donora, the boy having been struck by an automobile while walking along the Donora-Monongahela roda, recommended that the state and county in improving roads make provisions for pedestrians as well as for vehicle travel. The recommendation of course applies to sections closely built up.

Roads with similar conditions to the Donora-Monongahela road ought to have a pathway for pedestians. The sections the Donora-Monongahela thoroughfare connects are thickly populated with common people, and a vast majority of common people are not owners of commtn people are not owners of motor cars or any other sort of vehicleis. But they have the taste and love to get out on the state or county highways just as much as the man with a machine. In this free country they have the same privileges.

Between Charleroi and Speers provisions for those who walk need to be made. Otherwise we are likely to have a repetition of the Donora tragedy almost any time.

PREDICTION TIME.

Pittsburg newspapers Saturday chronicled the fact that last week for the first time in 25 years coke was being transported by water in that district. Big shipments were made from the Frick plant on Po i 6 along the Monongahela to the Steel Corporation mills near Pittsburg. In the same report it was noted that during the 24 hours that preceded midnight Wednesday 32 steamers towing 167 barges had passed through the lock at Dam No. 3.

This is a most encauraging indication, and it means much for the future of this section of the country. When the freight car shortage began to grow so bad that it was appreciably reducing the production throughout the country this newspaper said that it almost certainly would lead to a return to water shipments for such products as coke, coal, brick and coarse raw materials, and that it would be worth all it cost if it did. The prediction is beginning to work out, and we stick to our original estimate of the economics value of the change.—Fairmont West Virginian.

WHISTLE OF LOCOMOTIVE SAVES TOWN FROM BURNING

Shrill blasts from the whistle of a passing locomotive probably saved the town of Smock, about five miles northwest of Uniontown, from destruction Wednesday morning. Several buildings in the center of the town were burning briskly and apparently none of the inhabitants had been aroused when the train crew passed and noticed the blaze. The whistle brought out men and women, who with buckets, garden hose and fire extinguishers got the fire under control. The stable of W. J. Sparrow, leased as a livery by John Stahl and Charles Bailes, and two stables owned by James Lee, containing six horses, were destroyed. Fifteen vehicles, owned by Stahl and Bailes were burned. The total loss is about $10,000.

RUSSIA'S BLOW FOR FREEDOM.

(From the Boston Transcript)

The whole world, and particularly America, a country which has the best of reasons for friendliness toward the Russian people will rejoice with all its soul at the removal of the incubus of crime and graft and German intrigue from the government of Russia, and the setting up of a system under which the nation at last may rule and may become great. * * * Russia, strong, sound at heart, intensely and genially human, spontaneous, creative—the country of the kindling genius of Tolstoi, Turgueneff, Dostoievsky, the land of * * * beauty in music, the dance and decoration—Russia bids fair to become free and triumphant at last, for her most representative forces have taken the government of the country into their hands

The will of the Russian nation had long been thwarted by an infamous palace conspiracy, centering, perhaps, in the German Czarina, the wife of the Emperor. * * * The nature of this conspiracy appeared when the secretary of Prime Minister Stürmer confessed to taking German bribes to impede the course of the war against Germany. The Douma demanded the reorganization of the government, but was powerless to effect it. Then came the assassination of Rasputin. This was the beginning of the end. The redeeming forces of the nation * * * came together, and their union has now eventuated in the seizure of the reins of power and the resolute putting aside of the whole weak and superstitious and abominally corrupt entourage of the disgraced Czar, including the spoilsman Protopopoff.

Behind this arrangement the really representative Douma, the ablest and most patriotic generals, like Brusiloff and Ruzsky, all the solid commercial and financial classes, the universities and the press, are lined up Nothing could prevent the success of the rearrangement, the relief of the necessities of the people with the abundant food resources which the country possesses, and the earnest prosecution of the war against Germany and Turkey, except the spread of a condition of civil war throughout European Russia. * * *

Russia has taken a great stride toward victory, toward freedom. The nation possesses the innate capacity to go on with its march. The world will rejoice unspeakably to see it do so Most heartily the good wishes of all Americans will be with the new regime. The great republic of the west will stretch its hand in welcome and in support across the seas to the awakened Russian nation

The afternoon session will be a conference for teachers, the program being made up of topics of interest to them It will begin at 2:15 p. m. and each teacher is urged to attend. There will be some teachers and principals from other places to discuss the subjects also. This will be a very helpful meeting to all teachers. The evening session will begin at 7:30. The program will be made up of addresses of speakers from a distance and the music will be furnished by a quartet, and by the schools. This promises to be an interesting session as some good speakers have been secured.

AMATEURS BANNED FROM OPERATION OF WIRELESS STATIONS

Suspension of all permits for the operation of amateur wireless outfits, with or without sending equipment, has been ordered by Secretary of Commerce Redfield as a precautionary measure in view of the present crisis.

In addition, secret service agents, neutrality agents and agents of the Department of Commerce are keeping the strictest kind of watch upon outfits already licensed and in searching for unlicensed apparatus.

While the few known wireless outfits with sending equipment are very carefully censored, there has been constant danger that without the knowledge of the officers, government information migh be picked up by wireless operators and utilized in unfriendly quarters. The possibility of a chain of small wireless installations with smal' radius sending equipment by which groups of hostile aliens in various parts of the country could be kept in touch with each other and act in concert has also been considered. In the event of a declaration of war it is probable all wireless outfits not censored by the government would be shut down and prohibited. In the detection of unlicensed plants the small plants already licensed would be of great assistance.

Local wireless operators will be affected by the order. There are a number of stations in this vicinity.

Monessen Man Found Hanging in Basement of Pittsburg and Lake Erie Station—Leaves Note Begging Forgiveness

An injury to his head sustained two years ago when he fell from a freight car is believed to have caused the suicide of John J. Nicolaus, aged 30 years, in the Monessen Pittsburg and Lake Erie station He was found hanging in the basement by Baggagemaster Ashby Boyer when he went to the furnace to start the fire Wednesday The young man had been employed at the Monessen Foundry and Machine company for sometime and had been stopping with a brother in Donora. He was last seen by Monessen relatives crossing the Webster bridge two weeks ago. He had been brooding over his illness for some time. A note was found in his pocket, written and erased and written over in which he asked forgiveness for his act, asserting he was of no account in the world with his feeble mind and would be better off dead.

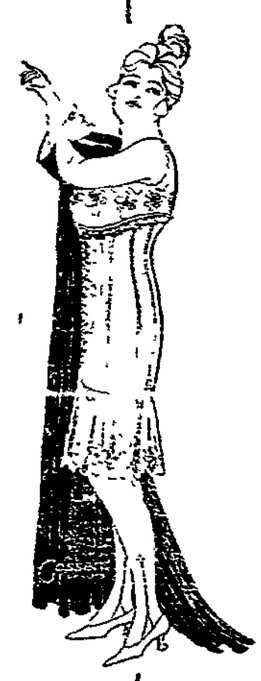
Special Fitting

OF

GOSSARD CORSETS



FRIDAY, MARCH 30

Through a special arrangement with the H. W. Gossard company of Chicago, we engaged Miss N. P. McNally of their organization to assist our corsetiere in a special demonstration of Gossard Corsets

The radical change in styles this season from the slinker slouch to the erect, well-poised, somewhat military form, calls for considerable care and attention in the fitting of your new corset.

There is a decided tendency toward the adoption of a smaller waist this season and a fitted bodice, with a return to the full skirt of former periods. All of this has a direct bearing on your corset. Authentic information regarding these new styles is yours for the asking during this demonstration.

You can come and be fitted to any of the newer models and make your selection at a later date, if you so desire. Whether you expect to purchase your corset at this time or not, we suggest that you arrange to attend this demonstration

While the original front-lacing Gossard Corsets sold at $25 some ten years ago, increased manufacturing facilities and an international distribution have reduced the price until now you can purchase a Gossard Corset for as little as $5.00. $3.50, and $2.00.

It will be a privilege to serve you and to have you visit our Corset Department some time during this demonstration.

WATER QUESTION

Coal company were left stranded at the Wireton docks, but by 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the steamer Alleia had them all anchored in deep water and in no danger The steamer then continued work by washing out the harbor sufficiently to permit the barges to be moved nearer the docks for unloading. The coal is being lifted out of the sunken barge lost by the Fallie just below the lock and the barge will be saved so that there will be slight loss. The barge is not obstructing navigation.

Industries ordinarily supplied with coal by river are growling and coal shippers are up against it. Probably they will have to adopt the method of the Vesta Coal company in using small flats and not loading them heavily.

Every town along the river between Lock No. 4 and 5 is suffering because of the low river. At Fayette City the reservoir is stored with water as a reserve in case of fire, but domestic consumers have to get their supply at a stated time when the pumps are operated in river wells. This is insufficient for all needs but has to answer the purpose. Wells long since abandoned in all towns affected are being requisitioned.

The dam at No. 4 is the oldest wooden dam in the Monongahela river, having been built in 1844 by the Monongahela Navigation company. Since 100 feet of new dam has been built as an extension on the eastern end and three feet added to the top. The present break is not the first along the Monongahela, but is one of the most serious. Previous breaks in former years have occurred at No. 1 and No. 8, the latter in 1904.

Investigations into the cause of the break at No. 4 are being made by government men. The first theory was that the dam was cracked by two heavy barges loaded with coal going over more than a year ago. A late theory is that the dumping of molten waste into the river a short ways from the dam has added to the injury.

ANNAPOLIS CANDIDATE ENLISTS IN THE NAVY

Says He Thinks Country Needs Him Now and Declines to Wait Until He Gets Appointment to the Naval Academy.

"I intended to wait until I received an appointment to Annapolis, but I guess the Navy can use me now," said Frank L. Moore, aged 18, of West Alexander, when he applied for enlistment at the Navy recruiting station in Pittsburg Wednesday afternoon. He passed the physical examination, took the oath of allegiance and left Wednesday evening for the training school at Newport News.

The enlistment realizes his boyhood ambition to be a sailor. He told recruiting officers he had always been interested in naval affairs, and had determined to seek an appointment to the Naval Academy at Annapolis. The appeal that "the country needs men and needs them now" convinced him, however, that this was no time to delay, and he resolved to enlist as a seaman. At the end of a year's satisfactory service he intends to take advantage of the opportunity offered young enlisted men to take special examinations for entrance to the Naval academy.

Mr. Moore was accompanied to the recruiting office by his uncle Dr. Frank L. Todd of 801 Arch street, Pittsburg, who appeared anxious that the young man should pass a creditable examination. When the surgeon announced that his nephew was fitted for service Dr. Todd was jubilant.

"I was never in the navy, but I often wish I had had the advantage of naval training," he said. "My nephew had a chance to be appointed to Annapolis, but he believes as I do, that in this crisis the navy needs eligible men without delay. I was very glad when he decided to do his bit at once, especially when he has a chance to enter the Naval academy at the end of the year. I'm too old for active service myself, and am glad of the chance to help the navy by bringing in a younger fellow."
